

ABSTRACT

A ferrofluid pivot bearing has a shaft, at least a first magnetic element fixedly attached to the shaft, a housing containing the magnetic element such that the housing is rotatable about the magnetic element, and a quantity of magnetic fluid
5 within the housing.